The Benchmark Reference in the Field

The Deskbook of Art Law is the most complete resource available for legal matters relating specifically to transacting business in the art world. It offers commentary on the purchase, protection and preservation of fine and applied art.

Step-by-step Guidance on Legal and Financial Issues

- Allegations of forgery
- Stolen art
- Questions of title
- Misattribution
- Misrepresentations
- Liens
- Joint ownership
- Tax shelters and deductions
- Reproduction rights
- Copyrights and trademarks
- Authentication
- Artists' rights to express
- Critics' rights to criticize
- Libel
- Slander
- Fraud
- Insurance contracts and claims
- Customs procedure

The presentation is organized to educate museum directors and curators, collection managers, artists, collectors, and their counsel in the effort to prevent misunderstandings and to promote the preservation of works of art and the expansion of public interest in art through successful sale, display, and philanthropy or governmental funding.

This two-volume work addresses the various definitions of art, including both "fine art" and "applied art," and recognizes the effect that the established definitions have on laws, regulations, and endorsements.

This insightful work can help you guard against seizure, loss, prosecution, and embarrassment by ensuring the strength of contracts, the validity of claims, and the ownership of rights.

TREATIES AND INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS ONLINE

US$795.00 Password Access Annual License Agreement
US$1,325.00 IP Access Annual License Agreement

Fast, Comprehensive, and Current

The fastest, most cost-effective way to get current, comprehensive, and accurate text for more than 12,500 U.S. treaties and international agreements, including international tax treaties, is only a click away. Updated monthly, it is the most up-to-date source for U.S. treaties—even more timely than official government publications. Treaties and International Agreements Online gives you the full-text treaty documents and index information you need, quickly and easily.

Easy-to-Use

A very user-friendly template makes searching easy! Plus, comprehensive search guidelines are detailed separately to assist you in constructing efficient, advanced searches.

The standard search form contains fields that permit queries to be specifically addressed to the body of a treaty, its title, subject, participant countries, date signed or general date range. The search engine automatically looks for variations in country names.

Know the Cite... Speed Your Research

The advanced search form adds additional fields that can filter search results based on a treaty's in force status or whether the U.S. is a party. A parallel cite field permits searching for references to Oceana's print and CTIA numbers, Bevans, DOS, UNTS, EAS, TS, TIAS, UST, UKTS and LNTS. Search results can be sorted by subject, title, CTIA number, or date signed order.

Flexible Access

Password Access Annual License Agreement permits the most flexibility allowing access from any location as long as you are connected to the Internet at www.oceanalaw.com. While multiple individuals within the same organization can share a password, only one person may be active in the Treaties collection at a time.

IP Access Annual License Agreement permits two simultaneous users. IP agreements are location specific. Multi-site agreements and additional simultaneous users are optional and subject to special pricing.

US$295.00 ISBN:0-379-01269-3

Expert Guidance on International Trademark Protection

This two-volume set examines trademark law and practice with emphasis on how to register marks, maintain registration, and enforce registered rights across multiple jurisdictions. Currently covering 51 jurisdictions, Trademark Practice & Forms ensures you a detailed explanation of laws and regulations related to initial trademark registration requirements and procedures, oppositions, extensions, renewals, and reinstatements. Summary coverage is found on transfers, assignments, licenses, and means of enforcement. Unique to this series is a complete booklet covering the substantive and procedural requirements and the most common forms for initial registration in each country.

Useful Country Guides Help You Locate and Compare Important Requirements

Organized by country, Trademark Practice and Forms allows the user to quickly isolate and understand the distinctions and similarities between different jurisdictions. Helpful commentary, together with important timelines and easy to follow forms, makes this publication a valuable addition to your resource library.

Now, in one source, you will have the information necessary to know where priority registrations can be filed, as well as exclusive rights and registration based on prior registration in other jurisdictions. Details on registrable and non-registrable marks, as well as the distinctiveness of marks are also covered.

Comprehensive Country Coverage

Each country chapter covers the following topics for easy comparison:

- Overview: Policies and Trends
- Quick Country Summary of the Basics
- Registration Requirements
- Trademark Register
- Initial Registration
- Registration Forms
- Post Registration: Renewal, Alternation of Modification, Cancellation
- Government Addresses, Websites and Publications

Special chapters provide an overview and discussion of:

JAPANESE COPYRIGHT LAW IN THE 21ST CENTURY

Teruo Doi, Sapporo University, Graduate School of Law
Center for International Legal Studies
Published 2001. One bound volume. 362 pages.
US$95.00 ISBN:0-379-21445-8

Chronicles the Evolution of Japanese Copyright Law

In 1899, Japan enacted its first modern copyright law and acceded to the Berne Convention of 1886. In the 20th Century, new communication technologies and international standards necessitated extensive expansion of copyright laws. This volume provides a historical perspective by reviewing the legislative and judicial developments since 1899; it then analyzes the current Copyright Act of 1970, and its amendments enacted before the turn of the millennium. Attention is given to the Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights Agreement, changes in the protection of photographic works, liability of digital sound and visual recording equipment and media for private use, authors’ public transmission rights to extend copyright control over the Internet, and measures to suppress circumvention of the World Intellectual Property Organization Copyright Treaty.

Designed for international readers, the volume’s appendices include the author’s English translation of the current and old Copyright Acts, as well as related statutes and ordinances.

GUIDE TO THE NICE AGREEMENT CONCERNING THE INTERNATIONAL CLASSIFICATION OF GOODS AND SERVICES, SECOND EDITION

Jessie N. Marshall, Administrator for Trademark Identification,
Classification and Practice in the Office of the Asst. Comm. for Trademarks at the United States Patent and Trademark Office
Published 2002. One bound volume. 287 pages.
US$85.00 ISBN:0-379-21447-4

Authoritative Guidance Saves Time

This unique guide is designed specifically for trademark owners and practitioners around the world to understand and use the Nice system effectively to avoid delays in processing trademark applications.

Guide to Nice Agreement Concerning the International Classification of Goods and Services provides you with:

- Official class text heading
- Explanatory note
- Expert Commentary for each class covered by the Agreement
- Highlighted changes and additions of the eighth revision to the Nice Agreement
- Full text of and general remarks to the Nice Agreement
- Index

It is the only book of its kind that explains the changes to services that evolved out of the restructuring of Class 42 and the context and scope of new Classes 43, 44, and 45 and their importance to your trademark application.

Guide to the Nice Agreement Concerning the International Classification of Goods and Services is organized by class. The Official Text of the Class Heading and the Explanatory Note for each class is presented at the beginning of each section.

The author then provides expert commentary for each item in the Class Heading and Explanatory Note. The commentary includes an explanation of the goods and services that are included in or excluded from each class.

Supplemental Commentary is provided for those classes that present entries in the alphabetical list that are not explained by the Class Headings or the Explanatory Notes for that class.

In each class, as appropriate, a fourth section has been added that highlights changes and additions that were introduced in the eighth revision.
